A NEW "navision" investigation is ordered in Congress. It will be welcome, although the nation possesses little "navision" to be investigated.
Perhaps Congress will find out why it is that no haven's air aviation, why those that control aviation do nothing at all, and, among other things, send a Shenandoah, as a political advertisement, to be destroyed in a Middle West thunderstorm, against the protest of the Shenandoah's commander, one of the killed.

CONGRESS IS puzzled by surplus farm products production. Some produce, like wheat, is at least sold, but the government must interest itself in helping farmers market their surplus abroad.

Charles Williams, who ought to know something about conservation, says: "No, that problem should be left to farmers without government help." A two-month-old baby might be left to put on his own little undergarments, "with-out mother's help." The farmer would be as well able to deal with foreign governments, under Constitution, or with foreign problems, as a baby would be to deal with its own nourishment and clothing.

LEARN HOW farmers can be helped, and surplus products sold at a profit, they might find out what the British do with their surplus rubber products. That is a rubber surplus. And you notice that they manage to sell it to the United States at about a dollar a pound, when it could be sold profitably at thirty cents a pound. A government that wants to do a thing can do it.

OUR GOVERNMENT is so afraid of doing something "socialistic" that it doesn't do anything except let the farmer shift for himself. The United States government has all it can do to take care of railroads and other really big national organizations.

MOTHER NATURE supplies the human race with infinite variety. In Venice, there is skating on the canals, gondolas are taking a rest. Rome is sweltering in unusual heat. And on far off "India's coral strands" the natives are hurrying back to the water, magic, sea, to drive away the evil spirit, at present causing an eclipse of the sun. All of earth's inhabitants, Christians included, once tried in an eclipse as the natives of India do now. So let us not mock them. In our new found science.

C. M. SCHWAB, who builds automobiles, or what-do-you-want, says: "There never was a war that did not commence with selfish trade motives at the bottom of it."

He adds: "There will never be another great war like the last one."
NEVER is a big word. Mr. Schwab knows that his description of war applies to relatively modern war.

WHEN ALEXANDER Macdonald, king James, was in college football, now used in college football, and went against Pennsylvania's millions of men and long rows of fighting elephants, he had no selfish trade motives in his mind.
Taught by Aristotle that ambition is the great thing, he went to make himself greater than his father, Philip, about all he had in the way of trade was to collect specimens for Aristotle's natural history studies, and then he was back to Athens.
He was a grateful pupil, as every man with a good teacher should be.

HILL IN ROSLINDALE

One man was killed, three persons were probably fatally injured and a score of others hurt when a Boston Elevated trolley car slipped on an upgrade in Ashland street, West Roxbury, today and slid at terrific speed back into another crowded surface car.

Both cars were knocked from the rails by the impact. The motorman of the rear car was crushed and died within a few minutes.

Among those first taken out of the wreck were: Motorman McHenry, who later died; Mary Mahoney, No. 117 Randolph road, Mattapan; Mrs. Margaret Marshall, No. 63 Radcliffe road, Mattapan; and her son, David.

Two priests, passing nearby, rushed to the scene and administered the last rites of the church to the dying motorman. The priests are the Rev. Eugene Tweeney and the Rev. Henry C. Bourdon.

VALENTINO FLOORS BARON IN FIGHT OVER STAR

APOLOGY TO SHEIK ON FIELD OF HONOR

Valma Banky Admirer Resents Rudy's Screen Love-Making to Hollywood Luminary

By C. F. BERTELLI

(Overseas. 1935. By International Services)
Paris, Jan. 16.—"You are a low bound!"
"You are another," retorted Rudolph Valentino, defiantly dodging a straight left, and dropping the distinguished looking stranger with a powerful right hook.

This unexpected encounter took place in a quiet corner of the Mogador Theatre last night as Valentino left the Theatre Francaise box during the first performance of "The Eagle."

The celebrated screen picture, William M. Cagney's production, the consultants that gentlemen in Paris "fight only with swords or pistols on the field of honor."

HEDDIPAT BARON

The immediate exchange of words revealed that the man who had attacked Valentino was none other than Baron Emile Ludovik, Budapest millionaire, who since last September has been running around Europe trying to find a way to reach Hollywood to marry Valma Banky.

"You have robbed me of my love and I will have your life," were the last words he growled defiantly at Rudy.

Later while Valentino was entertaining a large party at a Florida club supper after a tremendous victory from the enthusiastic audience, representatives of both parties decided on a meeting at a restaurant at dawn near St. Cloud.

NO DUEL ALAS!
Straight from the supper party, sleeping only a few moments at his hotel to take a pair of eighteenth century duelling swords which were a part of the collection he recently withdrew from the third château, Valentino drove to St. Cloud.

In the cold grey morning, in short sleeves, wearing trousers and dancing pumps, the screenmaster found the frosty garden high above Paris, waiting for his opponent.

A very different and subdued Baron here awaited with his seconds from a previous tussle around eight o'clock. With scratched hand he advanced toward Rudy.

"I realize I was wrong," he said. "Your love seems with my beloved friend, my friend. If you have ever loved so intensely as I have you will understand. Shall we be friends?"

"I also have loved and met, and as I understand," replied Valentino, after shaking hands the party returned to Paris where they breakfasted together.

WOMAN HELPS TRAP BOOTLEG SUSPECTS

A woman's suspicion led to a raid on the Community Garage on Cedar street, Boston, today, and resulted in the arrest of three men charged not only with bootlegging but with the intent to defraud their bootlegging business.

The men taken were Max Schaffer of New York, John Gorman of Dover, and Max Chames of Union street.

Nearly forty thousands from all over the state were found in the garage. The men were charged with bootlegging. A woman, it was reported, told the tip of the large car. She was taken into custody. A woman, it was reported, told the tip of the large car. She was taken into custody.

The woman whose suspicions were aroused by the activity of the men reported to Patrolman Gorman, and he went Thursday night, making the men at work. Later, after Captain John Anderson of the Brighton district had brought the men and found out bootlegging, Pin and Thelmer to the place and showed it on the floor with down guns. Then was arrested the alleged owner to try the trouper.

'CAL' WON'T ACT IN COAL STRIKE

Washington, Jan. 16.—President Coolidge and the Federal government will maintain "hands off" in the present anthracite strike; it was announced officially at the White House.

The President told officers he could see no way in which he or the Federal authorities could intervene.

The President pointed out that the Pennsylvania legislature is now meeting in special session to deal with the coal situation. He is waiting that meeting with some sympathy.

The Federal government also does not intend to take action to relieve the shortage of hard coal in the East. The President has received reports that the Atlantic seaboard, while short in anthracite has an ample supply of fuel to finish the winter.

While the strike is on, the President believed it would be futile to suggest that the operators and miners offer a permanent labor-management plan, such for instance as every home would produce a fire, but drew against the distance, and Professor Smith.

NUGENT DOES RIGHT BY HIS ALMA MATER

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

TAKING a broad view of it, there are two points in distinction upon which Elliott Nugent may lay a determined hand. First—and it is by no means a rare circumstance in these days of come and go in the spoken drama—he is one of the youngest of the bright lads writing pieces for the stage; second—though not so deemed important—he unquestionably has the thinnest legs among the nation's successful playwrights. Of course, there is another claim that might properly be set up by young Mr. Nugent—he also is an actor of no mean talent.

Any of these things are plain as a nose to those who take a good look with "The Poor Nut" at the Holids, where Mr. Nugent may be viewed in all his glories; where he is being helped on his career and, for the moment, producer, Patterson McNutt, to see that the night's efforts are accurately tabulated and the column set aside for the author's royalty is not crowded out of the weekly statement.

Taking pot luck with the localities, Mr. Nugent is no speculation. Though he is not a collaborator with his father, J. C. Nugent, in the authorship of "The Poor Nut," you easily discover playful touches to the comedy that none but an alumnus of City State University could develop. And that is the ground least of the actor-author. Likewise it explains why this fellow "Nut" comes over a barrel in the wit track meet and otherwise makes glory for the Buckeye boys of the Western Conference.

Say what you will, Elliott Nugent just had to do the right thing for good old Ohio. And he did it.

Shows College Life.

EVEN when he was younger than he is today, Mr. Nugent felt the great urge to write a comedy of college life. He confesses that the feeling came over him when he was struggling with French, German and political economy in his sophomore days.

"Believe it, or not," he was explaining, "the toughest task laid down for any playwright is to get over a college boy comedy. The producers, for some totally unknown reason, don't want 'em. They are deeply prejudiced on the subject. More than in the past, it is the fact that 'The Poor Nut' is a college boy comedy that has been tested and found worthy."

"Not since George Ade's 'College World' has there been a successful comedy of college life. I don't think it is the preceding mystery of the age is the

Hollywood Christens Nita "Cobra" After Her Film

Certain fags and expressions originating out of Hollywood, often to be taken up by the rest of the country. Just as the designation of "hulks" to the male of the killing genre, so now "cobra" is the designation of the feminine. Each of these designations originates in the series of activities of Rudolph Valentino. The first "cobra" is, of course, Nita. Nita, who plays opulent, "Cobra," starting Monday at Loew's State. If this latter saying follows the former in popularity, it looks like another proof for H. L. Mencken's American bouquet.

Films Hold No Lure

WHILE all his youth, enthusiasm and boundless faith in the theatre, Mr. Nugent has not up to this time felt the call of the screen. He has friends by the score who left Broadway for Hollywood—some of them to remain and others to return to the provincial provincial of Broadway.

Already there have been a number of "Nut" plays that have been successful comedy of college life. I don't think it is the preceding mystery of the age is the

 What the Critics Say:
 "At every turn the history of the comedy is made plain and forth and abundant as the players could make them. The plot is simple and clear and the action is rapid and the dialogue is witty and the music is beautiful and the scenery is magnificent and the costumes are splendid and the actors are superb and the production is a masterpiece of art and science and the result is a comedy of the highest order and the most perfect of its kind."

GILDED KISSES

A Live Serial of Love and Temptation Right Here In Boston

READ THIS FIRST

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. Both of them work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm.

Mary Rose is secretary to the sales manager, JOHN MAN NERS, and is in love with him, although the office gossip says he's engaged to a girl of wealth, DORIS KING. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose refuses a repeated offer of marriage from TOM FITZROY, a young doctor, who's been in love with her for years.

Flossie is carrying on a flirtation with the head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER, although she's engaged to marry Dexter's secretary, SAM JESSUP.

When Mary Rose threatens Flossie the affair seems to be over. Then one day Mary Rose comes upon Flossie in Dexter's arms in a small office. When she scolds her about it, Flossie says it's not her fault men find her so attractive!

Dexter makes Flossie head of the files department, with her chum, ALICE JAMES, as assistant. The pair all but wreck the department.

One night they go out dancing with Dexter and some other people, and Flossie comes home much the worse for cocktails—almost the first she's ever had. Then the girls' mother, MRS. MIDDLETON, decides to "take her in hand," but it's too late. Flossie goes her own sweet, wild way. Alice tells Sam about Flossie and Flossie gets even by "firming" her.

John Manners shows increased interest in Mary Rose. One night he takes her home to meet his invalid mother. Later, Doris King comes to the office and makes a point of telling Mary Rose that she and Manners are soon to be married.

The next night Manners takes Mary Rose to a movie, to talk things over. And in the darkness, Mary Rose feels his hand close over hers. She draws it away.

'KEEP MOVING,' IS MOTTO OF ATHLETES THESE DAYS

Harvard athletes are speeding around the board track getting ready for the indoor meet season. Lee Combs is the star runner in the 100-yard race.

Ed Mannix, Brighton High School pick chaser. He is one of the star athletes being developed this winter in schoolboy circles. Hockey certainly keeps the young men in the open air.

A heretofore expert with the foil, fencing is wonderful exercise and Max Porter is shown practicing thrusts in a Boston gymnasium, where they have a women's fencing team.

Another day in a woman's gymnasium, where a few of the best athletes are being developed. A captain of the fencing team at Boston is shown.

Capt. Bud Ramsdell of the Stoughton High School hockey team. They play a pretty snappy brand of the ice game to the north of Boston.

Lee Combs, member of Harvard track squad, who is doing well in the pole vault event.

Captain Tom Cavanaugh of the Boston College track team. He is a star at the mile distance.

S. B. Jones, Harvard's brilliant high jumper, is hurrying over the bar in great style during practice.

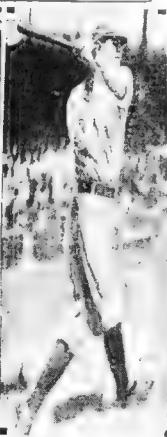

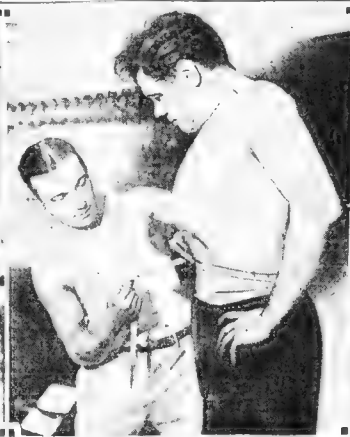

F. W. Dorman of Harvard, javelin thrower, posed for hurling the celebrated missile which the Greeks and Persians throw with shandon and surprising accuracy.

HARVARD RELAY TEAMS HAVE EDGE ON YALE

THESE FOUR GREAT FOREIGN ATHLETES COME HERE SEEKING HONOR AND MEDALS

ADRIAN PAULEN

Paulen, sensational middle distance runner from Holland, will make his American debut on the board floor in a special race at 500 yards in the Thirtieth Regiment Armory, January 23, at the Brooklyn College meet.

CHARLEY HOFF

Hoff, Europe's greatest all-around athlete and world's record holder for the pole vault, will make his debut at the Miltross Carnival on February 4. He will also run as a member of the international relay team. The picture shows Hoff attaining close to record height in the pole vault during practice.

GEORGE GOODWIN

Goodwin, the English walker, has been invited here to compete against Willie Plant, the American ace. He has proved the sensation of England and is looked upon to give the American team and top men a stiff competition.

HUBER HOUBEN

Houben, the German sporting ace, will make his first appearance in this country at the Miltross Athletic Association games. He has to his credit wins over Murchison and Paddock, scored in Europe.

SPORT EDITORIAL

STATE BOXING COMMISSIONER NEWTON A. B. BUGBEE of New Jersey has just said a column full about the many art. The three following paragraphs, from an Associated Press report, contain the meat of his remarks:

"Boxing has become recognized as one of the greatest athletic exercises for the development of both moral and physical man."

"When America entered the World War and the raw recruits were assembled in the various armories throughout the country, it was the unanimous judgment that in order to develop fighting morale that instruction in boxing was absolutely essential."

"General sentiment in the great majority of the States now favors boxing as conducted intelligently under State supervision, and laws and regulations have been adopted that have developed the sport to a standard that now places it practically above criticism except from persons who only have in mind the boxing of many years ago before it had been recognized by the army, navy and colleges, the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations of acknowledged character and standing."

E. H. A. SEXTETS IN BARGAIN BILL AT ARENA

NEW YORK A. C. Sextets, including the famous Miller, Hartman, and others, will be featured in a bargain bill at the arena.

By BILL GRIMES.

One of the most important doubleheaders of the Eastern Hockey Association will be staged this evening at the Madison Square Garden when the Boston Athletic Association meets the New York Athletic Club and New York Athletic Club. This is the first appearance of the Knickerbocker, who are leading the league here. They have made a big hit in Gotham through the clever tactics of hockey they have been playing and now up of the best drawing made in the New Madison Square Garden. They have defeated the N. Y. A. C. St. Nicholas and the N. Y. A. C. to date.

Moe and Joe They Get the Dough---Sometimes

No dear readers, Moe was not on the ice, but his skate threw him on his ear yesterday. His good thing Dore Day took a nap at the starting gate and burned up a five buck note for him. However, he expects to get it back today on one that has the clockers' eye watching it work. The B. R. is now $2086.87 fat.
